

Glam Garments Gone Green Crystal Couture February 16, 2009

Crystal Couture knows how fashionable it is to help the environment. Crystal City has been a leader in green initiatives, and on February 16th, it showed how to be fashionable and green at the same time.

There was organic beer at the bar, organic cookies from Elevation Burger to taste, and organic fashions all around. Paper to Pearls showed that beautiful jewelry can be made from old paper, Brand of the Free showed that ethically made t-shirts don't have to be expensive, and everyone showed that you can look great without sacrificing the environment.

Green lights shined in and outside of 2450 Crystal Drive, and reflected on the buildings in Crystal City, which is truly the area's Emerald City.
